GETTING STARTED

As Florida businesses navigate the economic uncertainty of the future, it is increasingly important to consider costs, productivity losses, and staffing expenses to stay competitive in the marketplace.

Many businesses like yours are discovering that addressing something as simple as tobacco use in the workplace can have a profound effect on profitability. Keep in mind: each employee that becomes tobacco free will reduce the health care costs of your business and increase its overall productivity.

About 70 percent of smokers want to quit,¹ but quitting tobacco is tough. This toolkit is designed to help your business utilize Tobacco Free Florida's Quit Your Way program to provide your employees with the tools they need to become tobacco free. Equipping your employees with the resources to quit tobacco isn't just good for them; it's great for your business.

Contact your local Tobacco Free Florida representative.

It may be difficult to know where to start, so don't hesitate to reach out to a local Tobacco Free Florida representative. They can assist you in identifying appropriate tobacco cessation treatment services for your business and guide you through the steps to creating a supportive workplace for employees trying to quit tobacco. Visit tobaccofreeflorida.com/business for more information and to find a representative in your county.

TOBACCO USE AND YOUR BOTTOM LINE

Recent studies of the private-sector across the United States have found employees who smoke cost businesses thousands of dollars each year in lost productivity when compared to non-smoking employees.² This cost to Florida businesses like yours comes primarily in the form of productivity losses.

TOBACCO USE DECREASES YOUR PRODUCTIVITY

Tobacco is the leading contributor to lost productive work time.³ Businesses like yours lose an average of $4,056 per smoker every year in lost productivity.² Workers who smoke at least one pack of cigarettes a day experience 75 percent more lost productive time than nonsmoking workers.³ Just three 15-minute smoke breaks a day add up to more than a week of lost time in one year.

CALCULATE HOW MUCH TOBACCO COSTS YOU^{2,4}

To calculate the potential effects of tobacco use on your bottom line, use the formula below to see how much your business is likely to lose due to tobacco use. The results may surprise you.

Do the math:

Take the total number of business employees and multiply it by 14.5 percent - the smoking rate in Florida as of 2018. The result is the estimated number of smokers your business employs.

$$\boxed{} \times 0.145 = \boxed{}$$

Total # of Employees Florida Smoking Rate # of Smokers

Next, if you take the number of smokers and multiply it by $4,056 – the estimated cost of lost productivity – the result is the total lost productivity cost for your business each year.

$$\boxed{} \times $4,056 = \boxed{}$$

of Smokers Lost Productivity Cost Per Smoker Total Lost Productivity Costs

Each smoker costs your business more than $4,000 in lost productivity each year.²

TOBACCO FREE FLORIDA HEALTHY PROFIT MODEL

While tobacco use may be increasing your medical and productivity costs, Florida businesses have the freedom to take action to protect their bottom line and the health of their employees. The Tobacco Free Florida Healthy Profit Model offers businesses a framework to maximize their cost savings by helping their employees quit tobacco in the most effective way. The Healthy Profit Model consists of three principles, each of which can be tailored to suit your business.

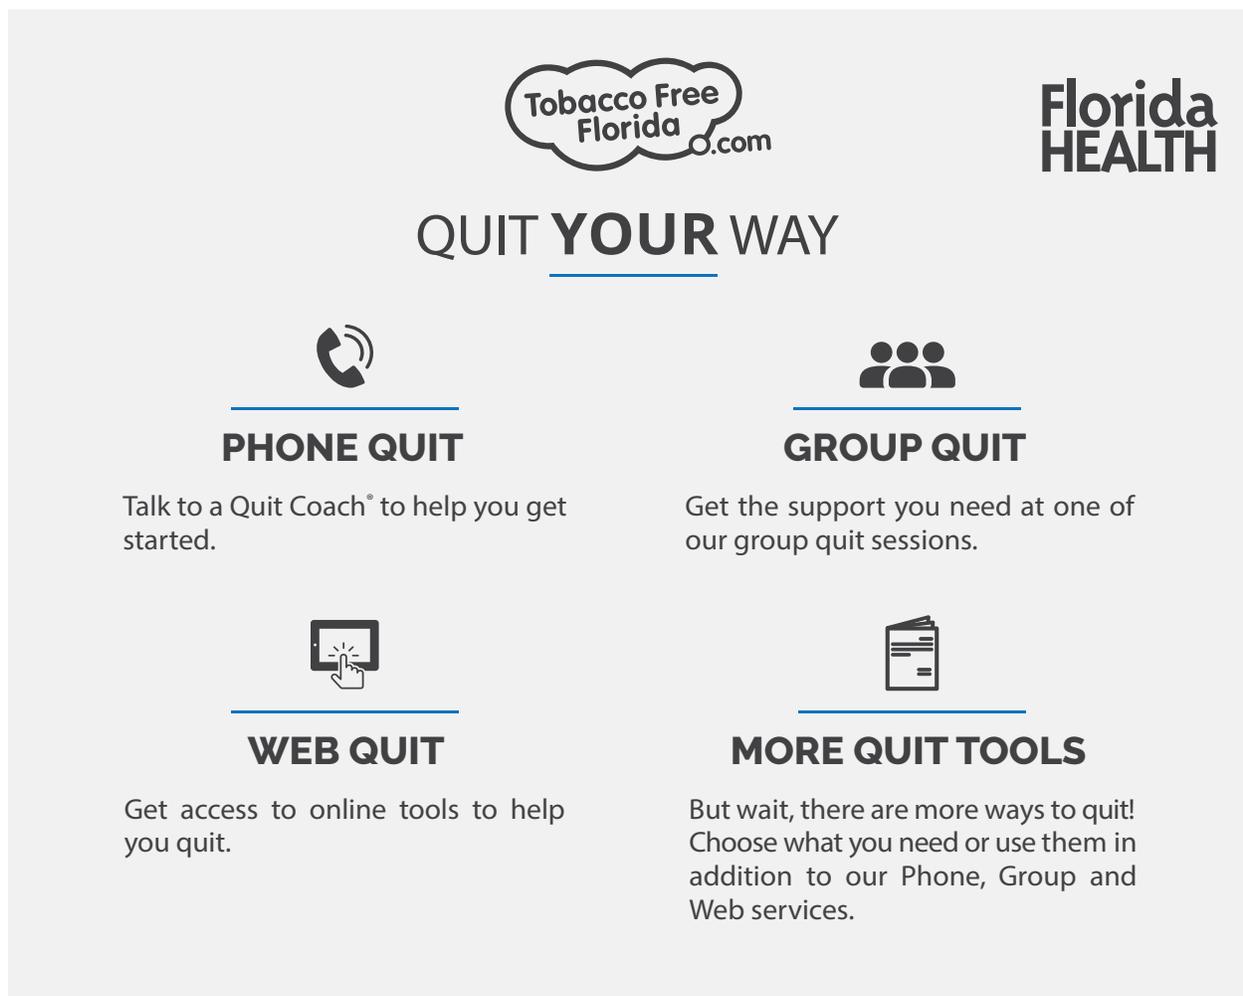

PRINCIPLE 1: OFFER PROVEN SUCCESSFUL WAYS TO QUIT

As a business leader, you understand that to be effective you have to have the right tools for the job. Quitting tobacco is no different. To increase your employees' chances of quitting, the first principle of the Healthy Profit Model is to offer your employees proven successful ways to quit that conform to the guidelines recommended by the U.S. Surgeon General.⁵ For businesses like yours, referring your employees to the tobacco cessation services provided by Tobacco Free Florida's Quit Your Way program is a great place to start.

ABOUT THE QUIT YOUR WAY PROGRAM

There are many ways to quit tobacco, but research has shown that using counseling or FDA-approved nicotine replacement therapy (such as the nicotine patch, gum or lozenges) can double a person's chance of quitting; combining these methods is even better.⁵ The Tobacco Free Florida cessation services have been proven successful by helping tens of thousands of Floridians become tobacco free.⁶ The Quit Your Way services and tools are:

PRINCIPLE 2: CREATE A SUPPORTIVE WORKPLACE CULTURE

In addition to offering your employees proven successful ways to quit, you can make their choice easier by creating a supportive workplace culture. A supportive workplace culture is one that effectively communicates about the Quit Your Way program, motivates employees to quit tobacco, and facilitates their success.

COMMUNICATE EFFECTIVELY

One of the barriers employees face while trying to quit tobacco is that, many times, they are simply not aware what options are available to them.⁷ With this in mind, it is essential that you effectively communicate about the Quit Your Way program so that employees can find the support they need to become tobacco free. Consider the tips below when communicating with your employees. Your local Tobacco Free Florida representative is available to help you along the way.

COMMUNICATION TIPS

- Decide how you will reach your employees – You should select what communication channels will most effectively reach your entire workforce. Take a look at the Communications Responsibility Checklist in the Resource section of this toolkit to get started.
- Assign responsibility – Make sure nothing falls between the cracks by delegating each task to someone you trust within your organization.
- Consider your audience – You know your workforce best. Adapt your messages to meet their needs and expectations.
- Showcase the advantages – Your workforce has a lot to gain from quitting. Make this clear in your communications. Highlight any additional incentives you decide to offer your workforce for quitting tobacco.
- Remind employees that services are free – Don't forget to point out that the Quit Your Way program is free.
- Spark interest – Use an attention grabbing slogan, picture, or graphic to raise the visibility of your communications.
- Adopt a positive tone – Remember to be empathetic and helpful when communicating with your workforce.
- Give the facts – Highlight the basic facts about the Quit Your Way program and why quitting is important.

- Call to action – Make the next step clear by encouraging your employees to do something specific. You could ask tobacco users to contact someone for more information. Managers and employees who do not use tobacco should be encouraged to refer friends and support coworkers trying to quit.
- Connect to more information – Make sure your workforce has access to the details of the Quit Your Way program. Encourage employees to visit tobaccofreeflorida.com for more information about the quit services.

MOTIVATE EMPLOYEES TO QUIT TOBACCO

The decision to quit is an important step for any tobacco user. Create a supportive workplace culture by motivating your employees to make this important choice using some of the tips below. The more motivated your employees are to quit, the better their chance of success.

MOTIVATION TIPS

- Showcase employee testimonials – Ask former tobacco users to provide testimonials describing their journey to beat tobacco. Hearing about others' success will increase the confidence of employees considering quitting. These stories can be included in areas such as company newsletters, website, or employee break rooms.
- Encourage friendly competition – Create a competition between departments or groups to have the most "kept" pledges to quit smoking.
- Incentivize quitting – Motivate employees with a low- or no-cost incentives, such as a special parking place for a week to someone who has successfully quit.

Coordinate Efforts with Tobacco Awareness Events

Here are a few:

- New Year's Resolutions – Support your employees' New Year's resolutions to quit tobacco. Acknowledge employees for every week they go without smoking or encourage those trying to quit to partner with a coworker to hold one another accountable.
- Tobacco Free Florida Week – This observance, which takes place every spring, is a perfect opportunity to motivate employees to quit and celebrate employees who have quit .
- Great American Smokeout – This event is coordinated by the American Cancer Society on the third Thursday of November. You can encourage employees to use this day to make a quit plan or to plan ahead to quit that day. Visit www.cancer.org/smokeout for an employee toolkit as well as free materials.

FACILITATE EMPLOYEES' SUCCESS

Once your employees decide to try quitting, facilitate their efforts by offering helpful information, removing barriers, and fostering a team dynamic. Adapt the simple tips below to your workplace culture to make quitting tobacco easier.

FACILITATION TIPS

- Provide tips to quit – Include helpful tips on how to effectively quit in company newsletters, email blasts, and other communication channels.
- Remove temptation – Offer smokefree shifts, in which employees trying to quit can work without experiencing social pressure from co-workers that use tobacco.
- Upgrade breaks – Encourage “fresh air” breaks instead of smoking breaks.
- Foster group effort – Ask nonsmokers to give up something to empathize with smokers. Design pledge cards for the nonsmokers so they can indicate what they will give up, such as coffee, chocolate, or soft drinks.
- Encourage co-worker support – Ask former or non-tobacco users to “adopt a quitter” to offer encouragement to employees while they quit.

IMPLEMENT A TOBACCO FREE GROUNDS POLICY

Quitting tobacco can be especially difficult when there is temptation in the workplace. Because of this, a tobacco free grounds policy is one of the most effective ways for you to facilitate your employees' attempts to quit tobacco. It will even help those that do not quit, by reducing the number of cigarettes smoked by employees and limiting exposure to secondhand smoke.⁸ To learn more about the benefits of a tobacco free workplace, as well as how to implement one in five easy steps, ask your Tobacco Free Florida representative for a copy of the Tobacco Free Grounds Timeline.

Why tobacco free instead of smokefree?

Smokefree workplaces are generally intended to protect non-smokers from the dangers of secondhand smoke, while tobacco free workplace policies aim to provide a work environment where all tobacco users have an easier time quitting or cutting back their tobacco use.

Tobacco free policies also protect all tobacco users, not just smokers. Smokeless tobacco products, such as chew, spit, or dip, are not a safe alternative to cigarettes. These products are addictive and cause many deadly cancers and may increase the risk for heart disease.⁹

Finally, a comprehensive tobacco free policy eliminates loopholes and confusion, simplifying communication and enforcement.

PRINCIPLE 3: EVALUATE YOUR PROGRESS AND ADAPT

The final principle of Tobacco Free Florida's Healthy Profit Model is to evaluate your progress toward helping your employees become tobacco free, and then adapt your strategies accordingly. Effectively evaluating your efforts does not have to be time or resource intensive; track your efforts from the beginning to see what works best for you.

WHAT TO EVALUATE

Tobacco Free Florida recommends you consider evaluating the following three outcomes when using the Healthy Profit Model: Cost Savings, Workforce Health, and Communication.

COSTS SAVINGS - Evaluating the cost savings of the Healthy Profit Model will allow you to measure the return on investment from helping your employees quit tobacco. Cost savings can be measured by the following indicators.

- Productivity – As more employees quit tobacco, you can expect to begin seeing an increase in your productivity. Sick days are a simple productivity indicator that you can measure easily. Combine this with other productivity measures you already utilize.

WORKFORCE HEALTH - A successful implementation of the Healthy Profit Model will eventually lead to a healthier workforce. You can evaluate health improvements in your workforce through the following:

- Health Risk Assessments (HRAs) – Health Risk Assessments are a useful tool to measure a variety of workforce health indicators, including tobacco use and tobacco-related illnesses. Consider consulting with an independent HRA provider if you are not familiar with this measurement tool.
- Sick days – In addition to being a valuable productivity indicator, sick days can also be used to demonstrate an improvement in the health of your workforce.
- Quit rates – You can track how many of your employees quit tobacco through employee surveys or Health Risk Assessments.

COMMUNICATION - It is also important to evaluate whether your employees are aware of the Quit Your Way program. Use the following indicators to assess your communication efforts:

- Awareness – The simplest way to find out if your employees know about the Quit Your Way services and tools is to ask them directly. Smaller companies may prefer to get feedback from their employees anecdotally, while mid-sized and larger organizations may consider distributing a survey or other more formal evaluation tool.
- Utilization – The best measure of your communications is to track the use of the Quit Your Way program. Keep a record of how many employees have actually used the services you have promoted.

Ensure your company continues to benefit from using the Tobacco Free Florida Healthy Profit Model by regularly (6 – 12 month intervals) evaluating its impact and making adjustments as necessary. Much like creating a supportive workplace culture, evaluation is a process that will look different from business to business. It is not necessary to evaluate everything indicated in this toolkit; you can tailor the evaluation to your organization. The CDC provides extensive resources to assist in developing an evaluation plan. These resources can be accessed at www.cdc.gov/workplacehealthpromotion/model/evaluation/index.html.

THE NEXT STEPS

Equipping your employees to quit tobacco isn't just good for them; it is great for your business. Now that you understand the basics of implementing the Healthy Profit Model, Tobacco Free Florida offers a number of tools to turn this knowledge into action.

RESOURCE B: FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: I am interested in implementing a tobacco free grounds policy for my company. How would I go about this process?

A: That's great! Tobacco Free Florida offers a toolkit to guide your business in adopting tobacco free grounds. Talk to your local Tobacco Free Florida representative for a copy of our Tobacco Free Grounds Timeline.

Q: Why should I promote efforts to quit if my employees might work somewhere else in a few years?

A: According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, workers typically spend 4.6 years at one job, which is more than enough time to see the benefits of supporting an employee's quit efforts.¹⁰ Your business should expect nearly immediate productivity gains.

Q: This seems like a lot of work. Will it really be worth the time and hassle to help my employees to quit tobacco?

A: Promoting Tobacco Free Florida's Quit Your Way program does require some effort, but supporting your employees in quitting tobacco will create a healthier workforce and a healthier bottom line for your business. Tobacco Free Florida is here for you every step of the way to answer questions and provide resources so that you can maximize the return on your investment.

Q: How many attempts does it take for someone to quit tobacco?

A: Tobacco is very addictive; studies have shown that it can be as addictive as cocaine or heroin.¹¹ On average, it takes 8-11 quit attempts for a tobacco user to successfully quit.¹² Using counseling or FDA-approved nicotine replacement therapy (such as the patch, gum, or lozenges) can double or even triple a person's chance of quitting tobacco. Combining these methods is even better.⁵ The good news is almost 70 percent of tobacco users want to quit.¹ Many of your employees who use tobacco have probably tried to quit before. This is your opportunity to make their next attempt a success by connecting them to Tobacco Free Florida's Quit Your Way program.

Q: Is it illegal to only hire non-tobacco users?

A: Currently, Florida businesses are free to choose not to hire an applicant based on their tobacco use. Some states have laws restricting the freedom of businesses to consider tobacco use when making staffing decisions, but there are presently no such laws in Florida.

Q: What if I don't have a lot of employees that use tobacco, should I still consider a tobacco free grounds policy?

A: Yes. A policy about tobacco use is a good idea because it will help you communicate your expectation of a healthy, tobacco free environment to new hires who may be tobacco users.
